

Drug center chief named

MILFORD, Ohio — Edward D. Stach, a former minister and probation officer, will become the director of Straight Inc./ Cincinnati Monday.

Straight, a drug rehabilitation program that largely bases its therapy on using peer pressure to turn kids away from drugs, opened in January at 6072 Branch Hill-Guinea Pike Road, Mt. Repose, northeast of Milford.

Stach, 43, was the director of Marshall County Probation Services in Plymouth, Ind., for three years. He recently completed three months of training at Straight's center in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Previously, he worked 10 years as a youth pastor for the Central Methodist Church in the Cincinnati area.

Drug center chief named

Marshall, Ohio — Edward A. Stach, a former probation and correction officer, will become the director of Straight Inc./Correctional Institute.

Straight, a drug rehabilitation program that largely bases its therapy on using peer pressure to turn kids away from drugs, opened in January at 6072 Branch Hill-Guinea Pike Road, Mt. Repose, northeast of Milford.

Stach, 43, was the director of Marshall County Probation Services in Plymouth, Ind., for three years. He recently completed three months of training at Straight's center in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Previously, he worked 16 years as a parish pastor for the United Methodist Church in the Chicago area.